

Diver hooks up line to sunken vehicle in Provo River this morning.

Dennis Patterson Photos

After lines were made secure, workers pulled the vehicle out of the river with a tow truck.

Provoan Who Escaped Icy Waters Says 'He's Lucky'

By PATRICK CHRISTIAN
Herald Staff Writer

A Provo man who managed to escape from his Volkswagen bus after it landed in the Provo River near 4000 West Center Street in early-morning darkness believes he is lucky.

After pulling himself out of the 40-degree water, James Haregan, 167 N. 2650 W. — with wet clothes beginning to freeze — walked home.

"It could have been a lot worse," said Haregan, 30, who said he's not sure what happened early this morning as he was driving next to the river after finishing 18 hours of work.

Haregan was slightly cut on a hand and his head during the flight from the roadway to the river, and one police officer at the scene said if Haregan had been knocked out, he would have died in the submerged vehicle.

Only a small, right rear section of the vehicle's roof was not submerged.

The driver was also apparently near hypothermia as he walked home in the frigid air.

"It was so cold my coat froze solid and my vision was very blurry."

Provo police underwater diver Greg Cram was called in to help anchor a chain to the submerged bus, and it was pulled from the water by a wrecker after sunrise.

City, UT 84032 Thursday, March 7, 1985

Photo by Richard Bays, Wave Photographer

This accident occurred in Provo Canyon late Saturday evening. William C. Lewis of Linden, driver of the 1978 Toyota pickup, said he glanced away from the road, excited his lane, over corrected and rolled the vehicle. UHP officer Dave Nusink, said that four people were treated at Utah Valley Medical Center.

10 Apr 1985

One Now Critical In Canyon Mishap

10 Apr 1985

CRASH — The 16-year-old driver who lost control of her small car after trying to avoid a rock in Provo Canyon Tuesday evening is listed in serious condition at Utah Valley Regional Medical Center. In critical condition is her 15-year-old passenger.

Injured when the car left the canyon road eastbound and went airborne into Canyon Glen Park, hitting a tree, was driver Margie Jean Clyde and passenger Wendy McPhie, both of Heber City.

RAPE — a 21-year-old Orem man has been charged with the rape of a Utah County teenage girl.

Kelly Wendell Queensberry was arrested at gunpoint Friday and is in the Utah County jail on $5,000 bail.

he was doing, the youth said he was siphoning fuel from the motorcycle's fuel tank.

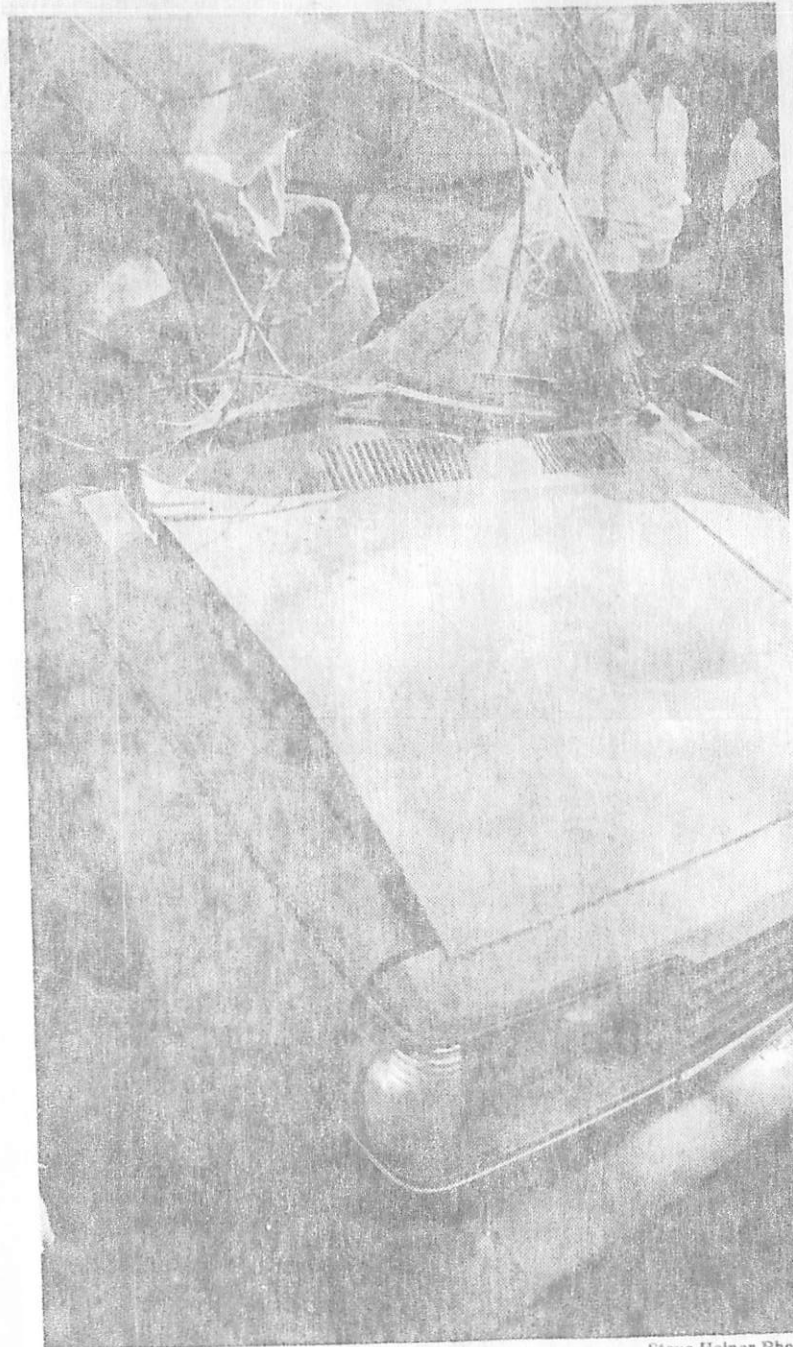

In his report the officer said he noticed the youth did not have a container to siphon fuel into.

The officer reported that he left the youth and found a distant position from which to observe the youth.

Police Beat

He stated that he observed the youth put one end of the hose to his nose, and subsequently arrested the youth on the substance abuse charge. The youth was referred to the juvenile court system.

Steve Helner Photo

This accident near Canyon Glen injured two.

Steve Helner Photo

This accident near Canyon Glen injured two.

One Now Critical In Canyon Mishap

10 Apr 1985

CRASH — The 16-year-old driver who lost control of her small car after trying to avoid a rock in Provo Canyon Tuesday evening is listed in serious condition at Utah Valley Regional Medical Center. In critical condition is her 15-year-old passenger.

Injured when the car left the canyon road eastbound and went airborne into Canyon Glen Park, hitting a tree, was driver Margie Jean Clyde and passenger Wendy McPhie, both of Heber City.

RAPE — a 21-year-old Orem man has been charged with the rape of a Utah County teenage girl.

Kelly Wendell Queensberry was arrested at gunpoint Friday and is in the Utah County jail on $5,000 bail.

HOSE — Orem Police arrest.

he was doing, the youth said he was siphoning fuel from the motorcycle's fuel tank.

In his report the officer said he noticed the youth did not have a container to siphon fuel into.

The officer reported that he left the youth and found a distant position from which to observe the youth.

Police Beat

He stated that he observed the youth put one end of the hose to his nose, and subsequently arrested the youth on the substance abuse charge. The youth was referred to the juvenile court system.

THEFT — A Rototiller valued

10 Apr 1985

The Provo Herald

111TH YEAR, NO. 266 PROVO, UTAH, Thursday, June 6, 1985 $6.00 A MONTH — PRICE 25 CENTS

Dennis Patterson Photo

Suds Nearly Spill in Canyon Crash

A tractor-semitrailer — that observers at the scene said was carrying a load of beer — crashed in Provo Canyon early this morning partially blocked eastbound traffic. A Utah Highway Patrol spokesman said the crash that occurred around 8:20 this morning involved only the one vehicle with no injuries reported and the load apparently intact. The spokesman said the accident occurred on a sharp curve near the Claim Jumper Restaurant leading to the tractor-semitrailer to come to rest near a rock cliff.

